Dear Sirs:

Why is the F&DA asleep on this issue?

Haven't enough people died from meat contamination ? When are you people going to use your heads and give the approval for meat irradiation?

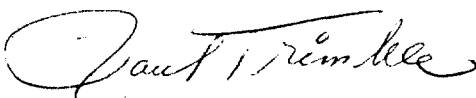

Again a large amount of meat has been recalled because of meat contamination and many sick people!

You need to handle this problem whatever it is and come out of the dark ages. Too many peoples lives are waiting in the balance. Waiting for you people to do what should have been done a long time ago! We need to get our meats irradiated to save lives and stop all the sickness.

From what I have read, there are 28 or more countries that have been using this process for many years without any problems. And the process is saving many lives, and keeping a lot of their people well.

I hope you aren't insinuating that, that many countries are wrong by your not approving the process? One would have to be naive to believe that the process is wrong with that many people using the process!

Sincerely,

Paul Trimble
